ABOUT

Committee of 100 is a non-profit, membership-based American leadership organization of prominent Chinese Americans in business, government, academia, healthcare, and the arts. Committee of 100 is a 501(c)(3) tax-exempt organization.

MISSION

For over 30 years, Committee of 100 has served as the preeminent organization committed to the dual missions of promoting the full participation of Chinese Americans in American society; and advancing constructive dialogue and relationships between the peoples of the United States and Greater China.

FUNDING

As a non-profit and non-partisan organization, Committee of 100 is supported by membership dues and donations, voluntary contributions, and corporate sponsorships. Committee of 100 does not receive funding from any government sources - foreign or domestic.

WHAT WE DO

Committee of 100 has a rich legacy of harnessing its distinguished membership to address significant and complex issues pertaining to Chinese Americans and U.S.-China relations. In addition to serving as a high-level bridge and trusted interlocutor, Committee of 100's signature programs include educational guest lectures, next-generation leadership training, research and data, and high impact conferences.

DOMESTIC ISSUES

Issues such as education, employment, the bamboo ceiling, ethnic profiling and xenophobia, civil rights, academic freedom, and immigration are among the topics that the Committee of 100 has championed with leaders in government, education, and the business community.

POSITION ON U.S.-CHINA RELATIONS

As an American organization, Committee of 100 believes that it is in the interest of the United States to have peaceful relations with China and that this is the key to a stable and prosperous world. Committee of 100 believes that it is possible for the two countries to seek common ground, despite the vast differences, on a broad array of issues including economy and trade, climate change, scientific exchange, public health, and arts and culture.
