

Committee of 100

Next Generation Leaders Class of 2026

Iva Chen

Founder and CEO, Jetsetera Ventures

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/ivachen>

Iva Chen is an airport restaurant and retail developer, owner, operator, and community advocate advancing inclusive leadership in aviation, with a focus on women and AAPI representation. Chen is the Founder and CEO of Jetsetera Ventures, an ACDBE/DBE/WBE-certified firm specializing in airport concessions development and operations. In 2025, she won a competitive bid to open the first-ever Panda Express at San Francisco International Airport as an independent owner under a Panda Express license. Chen is also a Managing Partner at Lady Luck Gourmet, where she launched Mama Go's Filipino Cuisine—the first Filipino restaurant in a U.S. airport—now one of the highest-rated quick-service concepts at SFO. Her career includes public accounting and corporate finance roles at Deloitte, Nestlé, CBS, and The Capital Group, as well as international entrepreneurship. In 2015, Chen spent eight months in Zhongshan, China building a chain of Italian restaurants, gaining firsthand experience in cross-cultural operations and global business development. Committed to community impact, Chen co-founded the Association of Asians in Aviation, serves as Vice President of Public Relations for the Airport Minority Advisory Council Los Angeles Chapter, and sits on the Boards of Directors for Pretend City Children's Museum and TeachAAPI.

Jasmine Fan

Senior Investment Strategist, BlackRock

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/jasmine-sijie-fan-cfa-7675b92a/>

Jasmine (Sijie) Fan is a Senior Investment Strategist at BlackRock, where she specializes in global investment research. In her role, she develops market insights that help guide asset allocation decisions, delivering timely market outlooks and actionable recommendations to institutional and wealth management clients across North and South America. She regularly communicates these perspectives through research publications, client presentations, and roadshows, helping investors navigate evolving market conditions and identify opportunities across asset classes. In addition to her professional work, Fan is the founder of Hanfu NYC, a nonprofit organization established in 2014 dedicated to promoting knowledge and appreciation of traditional Chinese culture. Through regular events and cultural collaborations, the organization explores Hanfu as a meaningful platform for community building and a gateway to broader Chinese cultural practices, including music, arts, and history. Fan graduated from Columbia University with a degree in Applied Mathematics and is a Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) charterholder. She is passionate about bridging global investing with cultural exchange, bringing together her professional expertise and community leadership to foster dialogue, understanding, and long-term connections across cultures.

Anne Hsu

Executive Producer, Face the Nation CBS News

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/annehsu923/>

Anne Hsu is the executive producer of Face the Nation with Margaret Brennan on CBS News, where she directs editorial strategy and oversees all aspects of production for one of the nation's most respected public affairs programs. In this role, she helps shape national conversations on critical domestic and global issues. Previously, Hsu served as senior broadcast producer for Face the Nation, managing production during the COVID-19 pandemic and coordinating high-profile interviews with leaders including Mike Johnson, Bill Burns, and Volodymyr Zelenskyy. Since joining CBS News in 2014, she has held several key roles, including broadcast producer for the CBS Weekend News, and was part of the team that launched CBSN (now CBS News 24/7), helping define the network's digital news content. A graduate of the University of Southern California, Hsu holds a degree in broadcast journalism with a minor in international relations and is an alumna of the Asian American Journalists Association's Executive Leadership Program. Born in Stamford, Connecticut and raised in Hong Kong, she is fluent in Cantonese and brings a global perspective to her work in news and media leadership.

Qian (Jenny) Huang

Full Professor, Southern Illinois University Carbondale

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/qian-huang-8618931a/>

Qian (Jenny) Huang is an accomplished educator and researcher with more than 15 years of combined experience in academia, construction management, and applied research. She serves as a Full Professor and Program Coordinator for Construction Management and Operations at Southern Illinois University Carbondale. Her expertise connects construction safety education, artificial intelligence applications in smart buildings and agriculture, and wireless sensor network technologies. She has secured more than $1 million dollars in competitive research funding, including major grants from the U.S. Department of Labor and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. She has published widely in peer reviewed journals, including the Journal of Information Technology in Construction. Huang is a dedicated mentor and academic leader who cares deeply for her students and the broader rural community. She has built a strong record of leadership and excellence in teaching, research, and service. She leads major initiatives that integrate safety training and AI driven learning tools into higher education. Her work advances safer, smarter, and more sustainable built environments while supporting student growth and rural community well-being.

Rob Li

Managing Partner, Amont Partners

<https://linkedin.com/in/zl79>

Rob Li is the Managing Partner of Amont Partners, a New York-based global equity investment firm that takes a long-term, private equity approach to investing across public and private markets. With over 16 years of investment experience, he focuses on promoting financial inclusion and empowering entrepreneurs to drive sustainable social impact across the Americas and Asia. Li has led major corporate governance-focused activist investments, including Beijing Enterprise Water (featured in The Wall Street Journal), Avon (merged with Natura), and Yum China (a spinoff from Yum Inc). Li serves on the Harvard Business Review Advisory Council, the Gabelli School of Business Advisory Board at Fordham University, and the Harvard CAMLab Advisory Board. He is also an Asia Society Asia21 Fellow as well as a member of the Milken Young Leaders Circle. Li's industry insights are frequently featured by leading media outlets, including The Wall Street Journal, the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), Bloomberg, TechCrunch, and 36Kr.

Yolanda Li

HR Leader and Co-Founder

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/yolandaliyyy/>

Yolanda Li is an HR Leader and co-founder of an AI-driven hiring platform focused on improving how organizations screen and evaluate talent. With 13 years of global experience in people, talent, and operations leadership across the United States, Europe, and Asia, Li has supported organizations through growth, transformation, and workforce planning. She brings deep expertise in building HR infrastructure, strengthening employee experience, and partnering with senior leaders to translate business strategy into scalable programs. Li holds an MBA from MIT Sloan School of Management and a Bachelor of Law from Tsinghua University, and she brings a cross-cultural lens to leadership, talent strategy, and community impact. She is committed to advancing opportunity through workforce development, mentorship, and civic engagement, and has served in community leadership roles, including as President of the Rotary Club of Cambridge. Li is excited to join Committee of 100's Next Generation Leaders Class of 2026 and contribute to initiatives that strengthen the Chinese American community and expand leadership pipelines.

Joshua Liao

Physician Executive and Professor

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/joshualiao/>

Joshua Liao is a physician executive and scholar whose work focuses on combining public and private policy with clinical transformation to improve health outcomes. Liao is the National Associate Vice President for Clinical Transformation at Ascension, one of the nation's largest nonprofit health systems, where he oversees enterprise programs using technology and capabilities, including remote patient monitoring, patient-reported outcomes, clinician decision support, and large-scale engagement campaigns, to engage patients and clinicians and ultimately improve outcomes across diverse communities. He is also a Professor of Medicine and Professor of Health Economics, Systems, & Policy at The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, where he founded the Program on Policy Evaluation and Learning. Liao earned his medical degree Alpha Omega Alpha from Baylor College of Medicine, completed his clinical training at Brigham & Women's Hospital where he was a Clinical Fellow in Medicine at Harvard Medical School, and obtained his Master of Science in health policy research from University of Pennsylvania, where he served as Senior Fellow at the Leonard Davis Institute of Health Economics in the Wharton School.

Jay Lu

CEO and Co-Founder, Ark FinTech.AI

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/jay-lu-919b7a76/>

Jay Lu is a seasoned fintech and cross-border banking executive with over 15 years of experience spanning top-tier global banks, high-growth fintech platforms, and entrepreneurial ventures. He currently serves as CEO & Co-Founder of Ark FinTech.AI, where he is building next-generation AI-powered banking solutions for global users. Lu has led large-scale payment and financial services innovation across organizations including Walmart, East West Bank, Wells Fargo, SoFi, Citi, Huaxia Bank, and IFC. His work sits at the intersection of banking and technology, where he has led the growth of customer-centric banking business, innovated payment products, scaled cross-border ecommerce, and built strategic partnerships across global markets. He is known for combining AI technology, industry knowledge, product strategy, and execution to scale digital banking business, having delivered significant outcomes. Lu is particularly passionate about advancing cross-border commerce and expanding access to modern financial services through innovation in AI, embedded finance, and next-generation banking platform. Known for his entrepreneurial mindset and execution focus, Lu has consistently driven initiatives from concept to launch, aligning product, engineering, and business teams toward measurable impact. He holds an MBA from the University of Texas at Austin and has been recognized with multiple industry awards for leadership and innovation.

Scott Moore

Managing Director, Global Initiatives, Research, and Strategy, Penn Global

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/scottmichelmoore/>

Originally from Louisville, Kentucky, Scott Moore is Managing Director of Global Initiatives, Research, and Strategy, Practice Professor of Political Science, Director of the Penn Global Climate Security and Geopolitics Project, Principal Investigator of the Penn International Climate Observatory, Faculty Fellow of the Kleinman Center for Energy Policy, and Senior Advisor to The Water Center at Penn, all at the University of Pennsylvania. His primary research interests center on China, climate change, and emerging technologies, especially China's role in the global biotechnology sector. His latest book, China's Next Act: How Sustainability and Technology are Reshaping China's Rise and the World's Future (Oxford University Press, 2022), explores China's role in global public goods provision against the backdrop of geopolitical rivalry and competition and what it means for action on climate change and other shared global challenges.

Benjamin Xia

Global Digital Infrastructure Professional

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/benxia/>

Benjamin Xia is a cross-border digital infrastructure professional based in Hong Kong. Xia has supported corporate strategy and substantial public and private capital markets activity for leading data center platforms, contributing to the development of critical digital infrastructure across Greater China, Southeast Asia, and Europe. He is also dedicated to promoting transparent industry practices and international cooperation, actively supporting educational exchange programs that help to bridge U.S. and Chinese markets. Working in a globally interconnected industry, he focuses on maintaining professional integrity, supporting transparent investment practices, and creating platforms for dialogue that reduce misperception. He is a graduate of the NYU Stern School of Business and holds an MBA from Tsinghua University.

David Yu

Chairman and Managing Director, AAVA Group

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/yudavid/>

David Yu, PhD, CFA, is Chairman and Managing Director of AAVA Group and Chief Investment Officer of Inception Holdings, with deep expertise in international investments, capital markets, and cross-border portfolio strategy. A Senior ISTAT Certified Aviation Appraiser, one of approximately 20 globally, he is recognized for leadership in real asset investing, valuation, structured finance, and institutional asset allocation, particularly across aviation, energy, and global infrastructure sectors. He also serves as Professor of Practice in Finance at NYU Shanghai and the Stern School. Yu has extensive experience working with family offices, institutional investors, and global capital platforms, previously serving as a private equity fund CIO, C-suite executive, China Chief Representative, Head of Asia, and Senior Executive Committee member for a major family investment conglomerate. An experienced entrepreneur with two successful exits, including a public listing, he has operated as a direct investor, banker, lessor, and strategic advisor, supporting complex cross-border transactions and portfolio construction. Having lived and worked across more than 10 countries on 4 continents, he is a frequent contributor featured by Forbes, Bloomberg, Financial Times, Nikkei Asia, and The Wall Street Journal. His book, Aircraft Valuation: Airplane Investments as an Asset Class (Palgrave Macmillan), has received international recognition.

Benming Zhang

Civic Leader

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/benming-zhang/>

Benming Zhang is a corporate attorney and civic leader based in Williamsburg, Virginia. He became one of the youngest individuals ever elected to the Williamsburg City Council (Virginia) and the first Chinese American to serve in that role. During his time on council, Zhang focused on community engagement, economic development, and policies aimed at strengthening the city's long-term sustainability. Zhang later pursued a legal career, working as a corporate attorney advising businesses on transactions, governance, and regulatory matters. Alongside his professional work, he has remained active in civic and nonprofit initiatives across Coastal Virginia, contributing to regional discussions on leadership, public service, and community development. His path reflects a commitment to public service, law, and civic leadership. Zhang continues to support efforts that expand opportunity, encourage civic participation, and build stronger connections between business, government, and the communities they serve.